

Who We Are

Inclusive Business Lab, along with Inclusive Business Foundation, is a global community for nurturing future leaders of global citizenship, which is built upon global partnerships and collaboration across different sectors, world-class universities, businesses, and industries.

Young people will learn that everyone is unique and has infinite value, and that respecting everyone can make a difference to the society. They are encouraged to look beyond their personal goals and achievements, pursue a purpose greater than themselves, being positive role models, and lead a life of significance by adding value to others. Here is a platform that inspires, motivates, and empowers our young people to be truly global leaders of tomorrow!

Global Inclusive Leadership Program

Global Inclusive Leadership Program develops the next generation of inclusive leaders who are ethical, purpose-driven and global-minded. Through self-discovery, experience learning and reflective thinking, the program inspires them to see greater possibilities, motivates them to pursue a purpose greater than themselves, and empowers them to start their individual leadership journeys.

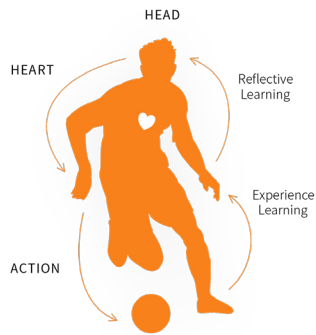

DISCOVER strengths and unique gifts, values and purposes

DEVELOP character and values-based leadership qualities; communication skills necessary for forging true global cooperation

NURTURE independent and critical thinking, entrepreneurial and innovative mind, hence becoming creative and principled problem solvers

APPRECIATE and contribute to intercultural understanding & respect

CULTIVATE a love of service to their community and to the wider world

The program reflects a holistic approach to education in which learning involves not only the head, but also the heart, and in which ideas and sentiments backed up by action, experience, and reflective thinking, resulting in deep and well-rounded understanding.

STEM+ Leadership Weeks

Global Inclusive STEM+ Leadership Weeks are held in multiple cities and countries, which have drawn thousands of young people from different social and cultural background, different disciplines across science and humanities, together to come up with innovative ideas for building their future cities with sustainability, and creating a better world.

The core of the Global Inclusive STEM+ Leadership Weeks include TTLR and a wide range of STEM+ challenges, combining the application of the STEM subjects with different areas of interest.

- Art & Culture
- Communication & Media
- Environment & Health
- Communities & Societies
- Entrepreneurship & Business
- Sports

Through taking new challenges, including Future Cities, Health Innovation, Genome Big Data, Machine Learning Arts, Quantum Music, young people will develop skills in problem solving, strategic, independent and critical thinking, teamwork, leadership, communication and presentation, while gaining more in-depth knowledge in STEM and other areas, learning real-world applications and contribution to societies. More female students are taking up leadership roles in science too!

Stay tuned! We will have our next Global Inclusive Leadership Week very soon!

Training the Trainers Leadership Roundtables

Training the Trainers Leadership Roundtables (TTLR) develops the trainers on leadership development, giving the next generation a grounding in values-based leadership training. They can be conducted in small groups or online and are structured to encourage everyone to actively participate in discussion, covering a wide variety of topics. Personal growth is nourished through mutual support and leading to transformation.

TTLR values-based leadership training is a foundation program. Besides the booklets, the participants may use the TTLR online dashboard to track and make progress of their leadership journey. Upon satisfactory completion of all the topics and team projects, the participants will be awarded certificates.

Join our Roundtable Sessions and let's grow together!
